A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

Martin et al. discloses the same invention including a shaving head (10) including a cap portion (22), at least one blade coupled to the shaving head (18) and defining a cutting edge extending longitudinally of and approximately parallel to the cap portion (16), a shaving composite coupled to the cap portion and defining a skin engaging surface (24), that the shaving composite includes a preventive (Abstract), that a portion of the preventive is capable of being transferable to a user's skin upon contact (24), that the cutting edge and surface are aligned (Fig. 11), that the preventive is contained in a water-soluble phase (24), that the preventive is a photoprotective agent (Column 4, lines 36-50), and in light of the apparatus rejection the method is inherent.
